Andrew Rule tells big stories for a living. The end result is a decorated career – twice winner of the Graham Perkin Australian Journalist of the Year, a Gold Quill, a Gold Walkley, a shelf full of books, from a bumper biography of a media tycoon (Kerry Stokes), to the story of a remarkable horse (Winx), and including a range of true crime books, many with John ‘Sly’ Silvester.

Andrew worked at The Age, The Herald and 3AW before joining the Herald Sun in 2011, where he writes across the paper and voices the hugely successful podcast Life and Crimes with Andrew Rule.

At a time when being able to communicate clearly and accurately is at a premium, Andrew will identify the traps and share some of the tricks to improve our writing, whatever platform you’re using.
